50678-3001 1967-1968 Mustang Billet Cowl Vent Covers

Packing List:

- 1 – Cowl Vent Cover – Left (driver's side)
- 1 – Cowl Vent Cover – Right (passenger's side)
- 12 – 10-24 x ¾" Stainless Steel Button Head Bolts
- 12 – Eccentric Nuts

Note: Be careful not to lose any of the eccentric nuts as they are custom made and only available through Ringbrothers. Additional nuts are not available for purchase.

Installation: Each cowl vent cover is marked on the underside with left (driver's side) or right (passenger's side). The tapped holes on the underside are for machining purposes only – you will not be using them. Note that the long edge of the vents is curved. The edge that is bowed out should face the front of the car.

Note: If you are concerned about the cowl vent covers scratching your paint we advise that you put a cushion that will not absorb water between the car and the covers. A gasket material, rubber or a flexible plastic would work.

Each cover will attach with six bolts. Each bolt will screw into one of the eccentric nuts. The nuts are designed to slip into to the slots of the factory vent. As the bolts are tightened the nuts will turn 90 degrees and latch onto the slots. Align the bolts with the two end slots and the center slot.

Step 1 – Hold one of the covers over the correct vent and use the locations of the six holes in the cover to determine where the eccentric nuts are to be placed.

Step 2 – Insert the eccentric nuts at the appropriate locations – they slip in with the circular end on top.

Step 3 – Position the cover over the vent and check that all the nuts are positioned correctly. Screw each bolt in a few turns to verify that everything lines up, then tighten all six. Do NOT tighten enough to damage your paint.

Step 4 – Repeat steps 1 through 3 for the other vent.
